PROFILE

Dr. Risi is the owner of Risi Writes, a professional proofreading and editing service that specialises in academic publications. Reputable scholars, journals, university faculties, government agencies, and postgraduate students have handpicked Risi Writes as their proofreader of choice. To date, Dr. Risi has edited over 750 manuscripts that have been successfully published in high-impact journals and books. More than 60 theses edited by her have also passed the viva voce with compliments on the language.

Dr. Risi balances her full-time venture at Risi Writes by serving as a senior lecturer in Putra Business School and an adjunct lecturer in UCSI University Sarawak. As a part-time academician, she conducts workshops on academic writing and lectures in the areas of leadership, management, human potential, organisational behaviour, and cross-cultural skills. She also oversees Putra Business School's corporate publications as the editor of PBS Press.

Through her dual roles as language editor and lecturer, Dr. Risi takes pride in enhancing the quality of academic publications, making a positive impact in the literary world, and contributing to scholars' success. With a profound passion for reading and upholding the English language, she aspires to write and publish her own creative works when time permits.
